The program for the remainder of Baby Week, including this afternoon, will terminate Friday. The climax of the lectures at the Warren M. Crosby rest room, will be an address on bottled babies, by Dr. Elvener Ernest, assisted by the head nurses from St. Joseph hospital. Special equipment will be brought to illustrate the lecture. Dr. Ernest, co-operating with Dr. Lydia DeVillbiss, has given special attention to the subject on which she will speak Friday.

The baby clinic at Quinlan Heights school is a regular feature of the Public Health Nursing association work, and will be held this week in connection with the nation-wide observance of "Baby Week." The public is invited to attend the clinic.

Whose Business Is It?
"Is Baby Week the business of a governmental department, or of a clique of women or of men and women, especially interested?" is a question that the taxpayers like to ask. A government bureau has been established to look after babies of America, and during the past three years of its existence, an increasing proportion of its office force has been detailed to statistical work and to the correspondence involved in the nation-wide observance of "Baby Week." That period of special attention to the infants of this nation is now being marked by the principal business of the women of this country, state and city.

Every afternoon during "Baby Week" in Topeka lectures are given in the rest room at the Warren M. Crosby store. The store also has a booth at the auditorium, where the home economics school is in session. They show the newest accepted style of garments for young children, and they have posted on the sides of their pavilion, bulletins of instruction in the care of babies.

The Baby's Eyes.
At the baby hour in the rest room Tuesday, Dr. R. S. Muge gave a lecture on the care of the eyes of infants. He gave the results of his years of experience in the care of the eye.

A CHILD DOESN'T LAUGH AND PLAY IF CONSTIPATED

Look, Mother! Is tongue coated, breath feverish and stomach sour?

"California Syrup of Figs" can't harm tender stomach, liver, bowels.

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow, children simply will not take time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailments, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is oftentimes all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the wrapper. Look carefully and see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

and sounded a note of warning as to the slightest carelessness in the handling of the newborn baby. "When spots begin to form in a baby's eyes," he said, "it is in an alarming condition. A poison has attacked the eye, the glassy part that covers the eye and admits the light. The poison first invades that part of the eye because it is a part that is not nourished with blood, and has no innate power of recuperation. The ends of the blood vessels are found at the joining of the cornea to the eye, and invisible lymphatic vessels traverse the cornea. Hence, that part of the eye has no power to rebuild by its own effort and cast off infection. The poison spreads from the cornea to the iris, and finally deeper into the eye. When the cornea is destroyed, it is practically impossible to replace it, though efforts have been made by grafting the cornea of the same part from the eye of some animal. But those efforts are never entirely successful, for the reason that the blood is necessary for the grafting process.

Whenever a child with infected eyes opens its eyes, the pus that is a treatment by nitrate of silver. There is a strong prejudice against the use of this remedy, and I have had mothers tell me that no one would ever be allowed to put it into the eyes of their children. That is the moment for the doctor to pack his kit and get out, and have sometimes stayed to try to persuade the mother, out of pity for her and the child, to let me in. I am biased if the sight of the eyes is lost. Great care must be exercised in administering the treatment, and if it is properly given, it is harmless, and absolutely the only cure known, and the only thing that is reasonably sure of preserving the sight in the infected eyes of a child. The poisons that enter the eyes of children are of various kinds, some more dangerous than others, but all should have immediate and careful attention.

Bathing and Dressing.
The second part of the baby hour was taken by Miss Edith Lacy, head of the Public Health Nursing association, who gave a demonstration and lecture on bathing and dressing babies. She spoke especially of the fallacy of the old theory of heavy and numerous garments for babies.

Dr. Jesse Cook made a concise, rather technical address on "Prenatal Care." He spoke of diet, clothing and medicine, and attention to the dangers to be watched for. The diet, he said, should be simple, with a large proportion of foods with fibrous materials, such as spinach, cabbage, etc. The clothing should be suspended from the shoulders, and proper support worn.

At the close of each lecture, opportunity was given for the asking of questions. A good deal was said, following Dr. Muge's lecture, about the passage of a law through the Kansas legislature on the treatment of babies' eyes. Some of the club women failed in an effort to have a law passed at the last session. This failure put Kansas in a small list of four or five states in the Union that have no law for the protection of infants from the danger of blindness. Dr. Muge recommended that a committee from the legislature be invited to visit the school for the blind in Kansas City, Kan., and learn the situation as it really exists.

Baby Day at Pelletier's.
Tuesday was "Baby Day" at the Pelletier store. A second "Baby Day" will be held at the store on Friday this week. The mothers and babies are invited to the Pelletier party Friday afternoon, and a great number of them attended yesterday's festivities. Cake and ice cream was served to the children in the tea room from 2 to 3 o'clock. Green and white balloons were given to the little tots. The play room, which is fitted up with a merry-go-round, a grocery shop, a slide, a table, and other playthings, was open to the children, and a supervisor was on hand to see that each child had a turn at the toys. The baby department also was open to inspection by the mothers, who were given an opportunity to see the baby garments that are the product of the latest scientific thought in the direction of proper clothing for children.

These new baby clothes do not have the yards of lace and embroidery and tucking that used to be the accepted way of swathing helpless children. The clothing is light in weight, plain in design, and substantial in material. The baby shoes and barefoot sandals have none of the stiff leather and numerous buttons that used to wear mothers and nurses to nervous wreckage.

The Pelletiers also have a booth at the auditorium, that is handsomely decorated and stocked with the conveniences and necessities for baby culture.

Judged 40 Babies.

Dr. Lydia DeVillbiss has returned from Lawrence, where she attended one day's program of the baby week celebration. She was one of a committee that judged forty babies entered in the baby contest. "This was one of the best organized baby examinations," Dr. DeVillbiss said, "that has ever been conducted in Kansas. Those in charge were: Dr. J. K. Smith, physical director of the State university; the Rev. Mr. Stauffer, formerly a member of the state legislature; and Mrs. J. E. Stubbs, a Lawrence woman of prominence. The women of Lawrence served refreshments to their guests after the judging contest.

As one of the results of the interest in public health created by the observance of baby week, the Copper trophy has been offered as an award to the county in Kansas which can show by its record that it is the best place in the state in which to bring up children.

TAKES NOVEL VOW

"Never Race in Auto Again," Is His Altar Oath.

Bride Doesn't Want To Be Widow, So Safety First.

Chicago, March 8.—A romance—one year old today—will culminate this evening in the marriage of Louis Diabrow, auto racer, and Miss Harriet May Henry.

It started in Los Angeles. Louis's mind was very much on the race track. Miss Henry's was very much away from it. With nothing much else to do, Miss Henry accepted an invitation from friends to go to the auto races.

Louis, still in his auto clothes, met Miss Henry. It was some impression she gave him, at least he asked her to marry him the next day.

But Miss Henry didn't quite know—auto racing is quite a dangerous occupation for a husband, she thought.

She Takes No Chances.
"I knew that if I didn't stop Louis's racing before we married, he wouldn't stop until I was wearing widow's weeds and I couldn't bear the thought of that," Miss Henry said today just before the wedding ceremony. "Louis's wanting to marry me and the fact that I convinced him that he is capable of much bigger and better things than auto racing accounts for his giving up the track."

Miss Henry almost admitted that if he hadn't given up racing six weeks ago she would have taken him anyway—racing or no racing.

The wedding will take place at 6:30 this evening at the Blackstone. Only a few relatives and intimate friends will attend. The happy pair will leave immediately for Cleveland, where Louis is president of an auto sales company. In August Louis and his bride will spend several weeks cruising on the Atlantic coast with a party of friends.

MANY PHOTO BRIDES

Jap Custom, Criticized by U. S. Official, Is Indorsed by Consul.

San Francisco, March 8.—A gradual increase in the number of Japanese "picture brides" entering the United States through the port of San Francisco was shown in statistics of the California state board of health, and made public by George D. Leslie, director of the bureau. Interest in the situation was aroused by a statement recently made by Representative John L. Burnett, chairman of the national house immigration committee, that the "picture brides" seldom marry and constitute a growing evil.
